

A top-down view of a dark, heavily textured, and possibly charred or burnt plate. The plate is irregular in shape with a rough, uneven rim. It sits on a light-colored wooden surface with visible grain. In the upper center of the plate, there is a small wedge of a yellow fruit, likely a lemon, which appears to have been squeezed. Scattered around the plate and on the wooden surface are small, golden-brown crumbs and bits of food, suggesting a meal has just been finished. The lighting is somewhat dim, highlighting the textures of the plate and the wood.
